About the White World Cane Day:

White Cane Safety Day celebrates the achievements of blind or visually impaired people. A white cane is an important mobility tool for such people as well as the symbol of their independence. Canes have been used by blind people for centuries, but the white cane was introduced in the early 20th century. Canes were painted white to be more easily visible. White Cane Safety Day, October 15, was established in 1964 by President Lyndon B. Johnson in an effort to raise awareness of people who carry a white cane. White canes are white because of George A. Bonham. In 1930, Bonham, president of the Peoria Lions Club (Illinois), watched a man who was blind attempting to cross a street. The man's cane was black and motorists couldn't see it, so Bonham proposed painting the cane white with a red stripe to make it more noticeable. A white cane with a red bottom means that the user has low, but some usable vision. A white and red striped cane means that the user is totally blind and/or deaf.

Objectives of the programme:

1. To encourage blind people to make walk themselves with confidence
2. Distribute 'white canes' to the blind people.
3. Participate to support the blind people in their struggle.
4. To give the respect to blind people and the white cane.

Importance of the White Cane Day:

Blind people use their senses of hearing and touching to explore and under their surroundings. The functioning of their senses can be enhanced with the help of white cane by making their arms reach longer for a better assessment of their environment. With the help of white cane, people can not only move freely but quickly as well. White cane also makes it easier for them to avoid obstacles, find steps and curbs locate and step over cracks or uneven places in the sidewalk, find doorways, get into cars and buses, and much environment but it also keeps them safe as drivers and other pedestrians can easily see it. All in all, white cane is a tool for safety, independence and showcases equality as well. To promote the uses of white cane and establish as a tool of independence and equality and to emphasize the shift in focus from safety to independence, White Cane Awareness Day 2022 will be observed on October 15.
